Adobe Photoshop Despite the fact that Photoshop CS5 is 12 years old this year, it is still the most popular photography editing tool in the world. Since its release, Photoshop has become an essential part of every photographer's workflow. This article tells you why Photoshop is so popular and how you can begin using it yourself. First of all, what is Photoshop? Photoshop is a full-featured suite of software created and sold by Adobe. It was originally designed for photo retouching, but the newer versions of this application allow users to edit videos, assemble DVDs, create three-dimensional models, and make 3D-printed models. It is available for both Mac and Windows platforms. Contents

Why Photoshop is so popular? Photoshop is the most popular tool for photographers. It has become an essential part of every professional workflow. 1. Photoshop is actually a suite of software applications Adobe Photoshop is a collection of applications that allow users to edit digital photographs and other graphics. It is a complex application with over 400 modules – all designed for specific tasks. Using Photoshop is a complex task because it requires you to learn to use a number of complex tools. One of the main reasons why Photoshop has become a well-known tool is because of the range of tools and modules that come as standard with the software. It is designed to make Photoshop easier to use, by combining a number of useful tools in one. Most of the key tools in Photoshop can be grouped into four main categories:  Image Editing: These tools allow users to adjust and manipulate images.  Graphic Design: These tools allow users to create new graphics using Photoshop.  3D Modelling: These tools allow users to create 3D model based images.  3D Printing: These tools allow users to convert 2D images into 3D models. 2. It is inexpensive to buy and use Compared to other software, Photoshop is more expensive than other software tools. While the software costs from $70-200, Adobe and third-party extensions can cost from $10,000-200,000. This means it is cheaper for photographers to buy and use other programs for smaller projects. However, Photoshop is essential for any professional photo editor or anyone who is regularly editing images. 3. Photoshop provides more editing than other editing software Photoshop has a number of tools

Dietary fat and dairy fat composition and risk of thyroid cancer: a meta-analysis of observational studies. Although increasing evidence suggests that fat intake is associated with thyroid cancer risk, little is known about dietary fat composition. This meta-analysis of observational studies examined whether specific types of dietary fat are associated with thyroid cancer risk. A literature search identified 7 studies that examined the association between dietary fat and thyroid cancer risk. The summary relative risks (RRs) and 95% confidence intervals (CIs) were calculated using a random-effects model. A significant association was found between highest intake of vegetable fat and a reduced risk of thyroid cancer (RR = 0.82, 95% CI 0.68-0.98, P = 0.03), which was also found in younger participants (RR = 0.59, 95% CI 0.40-0.85, P = 0.004). Although there was no significant association between the intake of total fat, marine-derived fat or dairy fat and thyroid cancer risk, a significant positive association was observed between dairy fat intake and thyroid cancer risk (RR = 1.38, 95% CI 1.13-1.68, P = 0.002). This meta-analysis found that vegetable fat intake was associated with a decreased risk of thyroid cancer. Dairy fat intake was positively associated with thyroid cancer risk, although the evidence was not significant.

Q: Dynamics CRM - Query all entities with the same identity as the selected Id I need to query all entities (IdentityId field) with the same identity as a selected entity Id. I could only find an example how to do that for one entity in function:

var selectedIdentity = entity.Id; if (string.IsNullOrEmpty(selectedIdentity)) { return; } var entityQuery = from item in dbContext.RetrieveMultiple(new[] { "Id", "IdInParent", "IdInParent", "ParentIdInParent" }) from relationship in item.LinkEntities

Baseline pulmonary artery systolic pressure predicts survival and transesophageal echocardiography-based 3-month clinical outcome in high-risk acute pulmonary embolism. The aim of this study was to determine whether baseline pulmonary artery systolic pressure (PASP) predicts clinical outcome after initiating thrombolytic therapy in high-risk acute pulmonary embolism (PE). Previous studies have suggested that baseline PASP might be a predictor of 3-month survival in patients with intermediate-risk PE; however, data are scarce in patients with high-risk PE. Baseline PASP was prospectively evaluated in 127 consecutive patients with high-risk PE who were included in the largest randomized thrombolytic trial in acute PE. Subsequently, the relation between baseline PASP and clinical outcome at 3 months was studied. Baseline PASP was higher in patients who died within 3 months compared with patients who survived after 3 months (75 ± 25 vs 53 ± 17 mm Hg, $P < 0.001$). Baseline PASP ≥ 80 mm Hg at baseline had a significantly higher mortality rate compared with those with a PASP ≤ 80 mm Hg (40% vs 8.2%, $P < 0.001$). Baseline PASP ≥ 80 mm Hg was identified as an independent marker for predicting death after 3 months (adjusted OR 6.13; 95% CI 1.54-24.44, $P = .009$). The area under the receiver operating characteristic curve for predicting death within 3 months was 0.839 (95% CI 0.766-0.930, $P < 0.001$). In contrast, the rate of PE resolution at 3 months was comparable in both groups ($P = .14$). Baseline PASP is a powerful independent marker for predicting 3-month mortality in patients with high-risk PE. A PASP > 80 mm Hg at baseline was related to a poor outcome, and optimal cutoff of baseline PASP was identified. Baseline PASP ≤ 80 mm Hg is a suitable threshold to identify patients with intermediate-risk
